Motion 1

Proposer: Sophie Hepburn

Secunder: Wes Nelson

This JCR notes that

- Oxford Junior Common Rooms have a proud tradition of taking stands in support of causes of interest to their members and of relevance to their Colleges.
- The College has many links to Tibet, most notably in the person of Hugh Richardson, who read Greats at Keble and went on to serve as Head of Mission in Lhasa for Great Britain and for India, eventually becoming a renowned scholar on Tibetan culture and an activist who received the International Campaign for Tibet's Light of Truth Award, which was presented by his close friend, His Holiness The Dalai Lama. His Holiness referred to Richardson as an 'honorary Tibetan', and the renowned scholar Michael Aris, together with his wife, the Nobel Peace Prize Laureate Aung San Suu Kyi, edited a Festschrift in his honor.
- This term, the University's Amnesty International chapter is drawing attention to the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which recognises a number of fundamental rights which are under threat in the Tibetan Autonomous Region.
- Dr Lobsang Sangay, the elected Sikyong of the Central Tibetan Administration and an important leader in the struggle to peacefully and democratically safeguard the culture and human rights of Tibetans, will be visiting Oxford in Third Week.
- It has the power to appoint Honorary Members by resolution.

This JCR believes that

- The work that His Holiness and Dr Sangay have done, and continue to do, is worthy of the highest praise and admiration.

- The JCR should honour the memory of Hugh Richardson by supporting the Tibetan cause to which he dedicated much of his life.
- It is only right that, as His Holiness recognised a Keble Old Member as an honorary Tibetan, that the JCR reciprocate and recognise His Holiness as an honorary Keblite.

This JCR therefore resolves to

- Grant His Holiness The Dalai Lama and Sikyong Dr. Lobsang Sangay honorary membership.
- Mandate the President to arrange for Dr. Sangay to be invited to visit Keble when he is in Oxford.
- Pay up to £80 in order to provide the JCR's new Honorary Members with the appropriate Keble stash.

Issues Raised:

- Proposer: Make the Dalai Llama an honorary member, other colleges have done similar things. Worcester college has a hamster.
- Hussein the kebab van owner is another past member
- Can make as many honorary members as we like
- Friendly amendment- no longer paying up to £80 to provide stash
- What are they doing in Oxford? Prime Minister speaking away from the union.

4. Matters for Discussion

- KAF funding. Applied to the KA as the Arts officer do every year, filled in application during Michaelmas and sent it to one of the officer's tutors for the references. Mentioned too late that the application wasn't attached to the email. Money will come through in 5th week, but KAF is in 5th week. Same amount applied for as last year, though unlikely to come out with the amount asked for. Asking JCR to temporarily loan the money (up to £1300) so that they can run KAF. Almost definitely be refunded. Expecting around £1300
- KA have said the application is better than last year. Money not being spent on paying people to come, just giving them money for transport and materials. Annual Arts budget is only £350, why KAF is always run through the KA.
- High chance that by the time receipts come through the KA may have paid the money, may not necessarily need to use JCR money

5. Any Other Business

- Keble bar subcommittee, no one ever uses the pool table in the bar. Silly no one uses it. Pool table is not owned by us. No one pays. Interested in finding a solution so there's a pool table in there that is free during term time.
 - Rare that pool tables are free, probably not necessary. Might be excessive to put a free table in there as well
 - Might be worth putting wood over the JCR table as conference guests have access.
 - Sports Rep is going tomorrow to go and buy pool cues, but the last one disappeared in 24 hours, one got broken over Christmas. Have checked with the MCR. £5-10 pounds a cue, seems a waste of money. Something to hang them up on the wall.
 - Does the JCR have storage space only JCR can access?
 - Pick some darts up tomorrow
 - Table football table appeared. Someone last year in the JCR ordered it. Table football campaign.
 - Table tennis balls, the lodge have some decent ones. Put a sign up
